Commendation

Recessional

Walter Hale

Walter James Hale was born in the spring of 1941 in a house two streets from the harbour, and he never lived further from the water than that. He apprenticed at the Cross Street boatyard at sixteen and stayed for forty-three years, the last twenty as its foreman. Boats he built are still working the bay.

He married Margaret in 1963. They raised three children within sight of the water, and he taught every one of them, and later every grandchild, to row before they could ride a bicycle. He fished at dawn most mornings of his life, and was known to describe a poor catch as a good morning anyway.

He is survived by Margaret, his wife of sixty-three years, his children David, Anne and Peter, eight grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. He was steady, kind and unhurried, and he would want you to go out on the water this week.

Printing at home

A few notes so it comes out right the first time. This page is not part of the program and does not need to be printed.

Paper

Ordinary Letter paper works. If you have it, a heavier paper (24 lb or 28 lb, or a light cardstock) feels nicer in the hand.

Settings

Choose Landscape, 100% scale or "Actual size" (not "Fit to page"), and print double-sided if your printer offers it, with "flip on short edge". If it prints one side at a time, print page 1, put the sheet back in with the printed side facing the right way for your printer, and print page 2.

Folding

Fold each printed sheet in half so the cover is on the outside. This program is 2 sheets; if there is more than one, nest them in order before folding.

If something looks off

Almost every problem comes from scaling or from the wrong flip setting. Try one sheet first.
